4 commentator answers listeners' questions: nikolay gorbikov reply to listener who asks why ussr has not offered to dispatch its own peacekeeping contingent to lebanon or any other hotbeds of tension, explains it would be much more to good of world peace if problems arising on intl scene were solved not on battlefield but at negotiating table, with all interested parties taking part. that is soviet view. ussr and its allies have been persistently suggesting to west concluding treaty about nonuse of force in intl affairs. latest such proposal came from socialist countries only this year, but west is yet to make any response to proposal. usa prefers to act in circumvention of un charter by creating peacekeeping force of its own.
